

Glades Livestock Market Assn. Established As State's Largest Cattle Sellers During Past Year

One Out, One In

The Belle Glade Police Department has had one out and one in recently. One out of and another one in a police uniform, that is.

Hilton Bonard for several years an officer on the local police force, was recently appointed City Sanitarian after successfully passing the civil service examination and has assumed his new duties. His former police colleagues have dubbed him "Belle Glade's Head Garbage Man".

Louis C. Lowery has been temporarily appointed to the police force subject to completion with civil service regulations.

Since both men are of

This 1954 volume of business definitely establishes the local market association as the largest in the state in cattle sales. The auction market at Gainesville appears to be second with a head volume of about 47,000 for the year. The Gainesville market also sold about 33,000 head of hogs during the year, but the local organization handles only comparable size (big), and police uniforms are expensive, it might be appropriate to say Lowery is now wearing Bonard's pants.

Doctor's Building Is Being Completed

Dr. J. Allen Baker announced Thursday that the building recently purchased to be used as a medical center will ready for occupancy next Monday. The building is located 200 Avenue B and was formerly a church.

The building has been modeled completely inside and painted outside and an entrance canopy will be installed Monday. The inside is partitioned to accommodate two physicians with technical and x-ray equipment.

Dr. Baker plans to move from his present location at 114 S. 3rd street to the new location.

Monday.
Dr. Harold Snodgrass, physician and surgeon and mem-of the faculty of the University of Miami Medical School will open offices in the medical center as soon as he can complete his commitments at university. He is expected to move with his family to El Glade about January 15.

New and modern laboraand x-ray equipment will be installed within the next few weeks in the remodeled building. The new medical center will be staffed by Miss Dor-

RENEWING THE BODY CELLS

The science of dietetics, like all medical science, has made remarkable strides in a comparatively brief period of time. Great new discoveries have appeared; old and widely-held illusions have been dissipated. One of the most important developments has to do with meat. It is known that a high proportion of meat in the diet is conducive of both physical and mental health and vigor. This was dramatically proven during the war—the Army diet was heavy in meat content, and superior endurance and fighting ability in the soldier was the result.

It is also known that meat is often a great aid in promoting recovery from illness and from operations. And it is needed by old people—the "tea and toast" fare that so many of us used to think safe and adequate for the aged was actually a starvation diet.

Meat's value lies in the fact that it is one of the limited number of sources of whole protein—and it is the one which most people find palatable once or more a day.

Now still another discovery emphasizes the importance of meat. It has long been believed that the human body replaces itself over a seven-year span. Atomic scientists have learned, however, that all but two percent of the body cells are replaced each year. The most important part in this process is played by protein. And protein is not stored in the body, as is fat, and so should be continually and frequently renewed.

HOW TO CREATE JOBS

In a new study entitled "Investment for Jobs," the Chamber of Commerce of the United States urges changes in the tax laws that will encourage the investment of money in job-creating enterprises. The changes suggested are: reduce government expenditures; move toward lowering of the progressive income tax rates; tax persons with highly fluctuating incomes on the income averaged over a period of years; hold the corporation income tax rate against any further increase and work toward a gradual reduction; reduce the capital gains tax and make more adequate provision for the offsetting of losses.

This program, which the Chamber terms "imperative," is not proposed just in the interest of those who own shares in corporations. As the study's title implies, it is proposed in the interest of everyone who works for a living. During the next 20 years, as a result of expected population growth, we will have to create an average of 1,000,000 jobs a year if employment at the desired level is to be maintained. In other words, the labor force is to grow at the rate of 20,000 people a week—and about $13,300,000,000 a year in new capital will be needed to create jobs for them.

There can be no doubt that people in all income brackets are interested in buying shares in American enterprise—the excellent response to a monthly stock investment program which was started only a few months ago proves that. Also, there can be no doubt that present tax laws do discourage investment—and thus act as a brake on further industrial development and further improvement in living and working standards.

A CORKSCREW — NOT A YARDSTICK

Does the Tennessee Valley Authority provide an honest yardstick of the rates that should be charged by the power industry in general?

It doesn't—in the view of a man who certainly should know—Brigadier General Herbert Vogel, newly-appointed TVA head.

Speaking before the Memphis Engineers Club, General Vogel said that if TVA "were to assume the obligation of paying interest at any reasonable and proper rate" it would have to increase its charges for power or cut payments to the government. He said also that if TVA is to be a true yardstick consideration will have to be given to paying interest and to at least allowing on paper for taxes. Then he added, "Yardsticks also include profit, which any industry is entitled to make."

In other words, TVA rates are "cheap" only because TVA's customers are, in effect, subsidized by all the rest of us. The authority pays no interest on its huge investment, pays no federal taxes, and makes only small token payments in lieu of taxes to state and local governments.

This is an especially timely matter now, with all the hubbub over the contract whereby a private, tax-paying utility group is to build a $107,000,000 plant to supply power to an Atomic Energy installation in Arkansas. It is argued that the power could be provided at a lower rate if funds were given TVA to expand and produce it. Actually, the difference in rate is accounted for by the tax and interest factors.

THELMA

Min - m - m - m - m -

Under present conditions, to sum up, the TVA yardstick has the shape of a corkscrew.

SENIOR "PARTNER"

If you have been in danger of succumbing to the idea that government should take on more and more activities, and that a "little socialism" may be a good thing, the following from an article by M. S. Rukoyer in the New York Journal American should prove of interest: "... the Federal Government is the partner of every successful concern, taking (in taxes) 52 percent of the net profit of bigger companies and up to 91 percent of the earnings of successful individuals."

"Thus, when the Federal Government ceases to compete directly with taxpaying companies and individuals, it ... is contributing to the well-being of a national economy, in which it has an enormous stake as tax collector."

Any government policy which discourages legitimate private enterprise hurts us all. It destroys potential sources of taxation—which means that the rest of us must pay more taxes. It prevents employment. It lessens opportunity. And it undermines that spirit of initiative and enterprise which is the root of all progress.

PROTECTION AGAINST MAJOR ILLNESS

The newest developments in health insurance—and one whose potential for good is enormous—is found in policies covering catastrophic, or major, illnesses which involve long periods of treatment and heavy costs.

C. Arthur Williams, Jr., of the University of Minnesota's School of Business Administration, tells the story in the November issue of Medical Economics. In a single year, the number of Americans with policies of this nature has doubled, reaching a total of some 1,500,000. As Mr. Williams says, "That's a pretty impressive total—when you consider that such coverage was just a dream before 1948, and still only a budding infant in 1951."

As of a late count, 31 insurance companies were offering this type of policy, and six more were contemplating it. The benefits are high—$5,000 to $7,500 in most cases. The rates are moderate.

As with anything new, this coverage is still in an experimental phase. But most of the insurance executives queried by Mr. Williams are optimistic as to the future. More and more people will obtain the policies, they think—and the policies' provisions will be liberalized whenever possible.

Here's more proof that we can solve our medical problems—and solve them through voluntary action, in the fashion of a free people.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

NELIGH, NEBR., LEADER: "Only when we assume our individual responsibility for our own welfare can we remain free as God created us."

DALLAS, PA., POST: "Maybe I shouldn't bring it up; but you got a will? I am surprised at the number of my friends and acquaintances who haven't. ... And while I'm becoming so personal about matters that should be your business and not mine, how long has it been since you sat down with your wife and explained to her your insurance policies and those other formidable looking papers you have tucked away in the safe deposit box or some desk drawer?"

HEMLOCK, MICH., VALLEY FARMER: "This issue of security or freedom is not new. Almost two centuries ago Benjamin Franklin said, in effect, that those who are willing to give up freedom for security deserve neither, and usually wind up with neither."

BOSTON, MASS., JEWISH ADVOCATE: "It appears that the Soviet Government, as part of its existence, has now decided to slow down its campaign against religion. A new decree, signed by Mr. Khrushchev, the Party Secretary, orders all Soviet officials to avoid rudeness and violent language in their anti-religious propaganda. However, despite this pronouncement, their real attitude toward religion continues to remain one of hostility, a point made clear in the very issue of Pravda in which the Secretary's pronouncement appeared. Other publications also continue to call religion the defender of all that is stagnant and old and ask zealous support of atheism. All of which indicates clearly that Soviet hostility towards religion remains as firm, ruthless and reprehensible as it was under Lenin and Stalin."

Outdoor
Florida

By HERB MOSHER
Spending the holidays at Juno Beach, instead of at home, has become traditional in our family. So the closing days of 1954 find us at the SURF cottages on the Juno strand, where we've been enjoying swimming and sunshine ever since well before Christmas.

Many readers of this column will not believe this when I state that, during the coldest days Florida had, just before Christmas Day, our party spent most of every day swimming in the pleasant Juno surf—and stretched out on the warm sand, enjoying life! True, there was a north wind, but behind the simple windbreak, constructed of drift wood and sea weed, it was always warm and delightful, from starting around 10 o'clock each morning until well into the afternoon. I happen to know that most Floridians were wearing overcoats, or were indoors, when all this pleasant outdoor life was being enjoyed by my party, day after day.

Thus, when the Federal Government ceases to compete directly with taxpaying companies and individuals, it ... is contributing to the well-being of a national economy, in which it has an enormous stake as tax collector.

One afternoon, around 4 o'clock, when the swimming ended, I fixed up my young nephew Dick Rhodes, 11, for some winter fishing in the backwash of the surf, right in front of the SURF cottages.

Fishing has been out around a tiny hook, tied on the most delicate sort of a nylon leader, which I had quickly had over 20 large whiting flopping about on the sand! Other anglers caught big snappers, though the youngster was chump.

Each day, at some time, the bathing was being bling. You just walk up to the edge of the ocean, perhaps wade out a couple of feet, and toss out your line. You're done. Almost immediately a whiting, a croaker, a blue runner, or similar fish is hooked.

At this writing it looks like pompano, for on Christmas Day summer came in, in the form of southeast winds, and that's what it takes to make "pompano chum" over to Juno. Usually we get a good run of pompano some time between Christmas and New Years.

Miss Margarette Rawalt, Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, paid a surprise visit to the district meeting of the BPW Clubs in November at the Country Club, and was able to see the crops and scenery in this area.

Miss Rawalt states in a recent letter, "While I have long been exposed to enthusiastic assertions of the wonders of the State from my good friend, Miss Sara Lee Creech, this was my first opportunity to become personally aware of the validity of her enthusiasm. This is really a most beautiful and most productive part of the country."

By Russell Kay

The falcon, in the minds of most of us today, has to do with a fiction character whose colorful adventures are recounted on radio and screen.

The real falcon, however, is a bird of prey. Although inferior in size to eagles or vultures, they are of all birds the most symmetrical in their form, and the boldest and most daring in pursuit of their prey. Their beaks are short and their wings very long and they possess wonderful powers of flight.

As long ago as two thousands years before Christ, man tamed and taught the falcon to serve him in his hunting expeditions, much the same as man today trains and uses dogs to point and retrieve.

The art of training falcons, now almost lost, is recounted as practiced in the Orient centuries ago from where it spread to the Valley of the Nile and was not known in England until about the 18th Century, when this noble bird rode majestically on the gloved hands of his prince, knights and kings of their hunting expeditions.

The training of these birds called for skill of the highest order and the men who engaged in this profession were known as falconers, while the art was termed falconry.

Your reaction is probably "So What?" and you are wondering why I'm dealing with such a subject in this column. The answer could be writing about segregation, the fight to control cancer, or the March of Dimes. It will probably surprise you to learn that the ancient art of falconry is being revived in Florida today and that a club located near Ocala's busily engaged in training falcons, eagles, vultures, osprey and other birds of prey, as was the practice of other falconers centuries ago.

John Hamlet, former director of the National Foundation of Infantsile Paralysis, private laboratory in Pritchardville, S. C., became interested in this subject when he was 14 years old. He has trained hawks and falcons since the pastorate of the Frostop-Frostop Presbyterian Church.

Pressure Grows For Sales Tax Increases Merchants Declare

Sensitive to strong pressures for changes in Florida's sales tax law to produce more revenue, the Florida State Retailers Association will poll its entire membership for their views on suggested changes. The poll will be taken early in January, according to Dallas L. Hostetter, executive director.

Powerful interests already have proposed an increase in present sales tax from 3% to 4%, association spokesmen point out. Another proposal calls for a 3% sales tax, across the board. Coupled with this idea is the suggestion that receipts be allocated equally to counties, to the state general revenue fund and to cities and counties. This proposal includes abolishing personal property taxes.

Six months ago the Florida State Retailers Association suggested a return to Florida cities and counties of a percentage of the state sales tax which they produce. "The idea is not new," says association officials. "A number of states prorate back to municipalities and counties a portion of the sales tax which they collect."

The whole history of sales taxes reconciles us to constant demands for increasing their rate and broadening their base. It was added, "Usually exemptions are whittled away before the rate is increased. Included in the exemptions to which the association makes reference is the new section of the Florida Constitution which provides for the use of heavy equipment and machinery as defined in rule 88 of sales tax, at a 4 percent 90-60-000.

Annual revenue, from present sales tax, $3,000,000. Annual revenue, same tax, at 4 percent, $9,000,000. Annual revenue, at 2% across the board, $130,000,000. Annual revenue, at 2% across the board, $130,000,000. Annual revenue, at 2% across the board, $130,000,000. Annual revenue, at 2% across the board, $130,000,000.

Pressure Grows For Sales Tax Increases Merchants Declare

Sensitive to strong pressures for changes in Florida's sales tax law to produce more revenue, the Florida State Retailers Association will poll its entire membership for their views on suggested changes. The poll will be taken early in January, according to Dallas L. Hostetter, executive director.

Powerful interests already have proposed an increase in present sales tax from 3% to 4%, association spokesmen point out. Another proposal calls for a 3% sales tax, across the board. Coupled with this idea is the suggestion that receipts be allocated equally to counties, to the state general revenue fund and to cities and counties. This proposal includes abolishing personal property taxes.

Six months ago the Florida State Retailers Association suggested a return to Florida cities and counties of a percentage of the state sales tax which they produce. "The idea is not new," says association officials. "A number of states prorate back to municipalities and counties a portion of the sales tax which they collect."

The whole history of sales taxes reconciles us to constant demands for increasing their rate and broadening their base. It was added, "Usually exemptions are whittled away before the rate is increased. Included in the exemptions to which the association makes reference is the new section of the Florida Constitution which provides for the use of heavy equipment and machinery as defined in rule 88 of sales tax, at a 4 percent 90-60-000.</
